Homebrew Hub

Cameron Troy, Cody Owens, Nicholas Beaty

What is Homebrew Hub

- Keep track of campaigns and players
- Track initiative for D&D, CoC, and Cyberpunk RED
- Filter through D&D spells.
- Create campaigns.
- Create characters and attach them to campaigns.
- View multiple D&D spells at once.

Problem Child

- It is annoying to tab between spells repeatedly.
- A good digital initiative tracker is surprisingly hard to come by.
- It is annoying to track several players for a campaign as a DM.
- There are very few Cyberpunk and CoC initiative trackers.

WHY WHY WHY

- Fix the annoyance of keeping track of initiative
- Easier to keep track of Campaigns and Players
- Ease the access of the ever expansive spell list of D&D

Team Background

- Cody Owens - Game Dev Student; playing D&D casually for 2 years
- Cameron Troy - Published Author, seasoned storyteller of 9 years, Call of Cthulhu Keeper of 1 year, D&D DM of 1 year, creator of custom TTRPG.
- Nicholas Beaty - Veteran Gamemaster and storywriter, with 8 years of experience in D&D 5th Edition and 1 year in Cyberpunk RED.

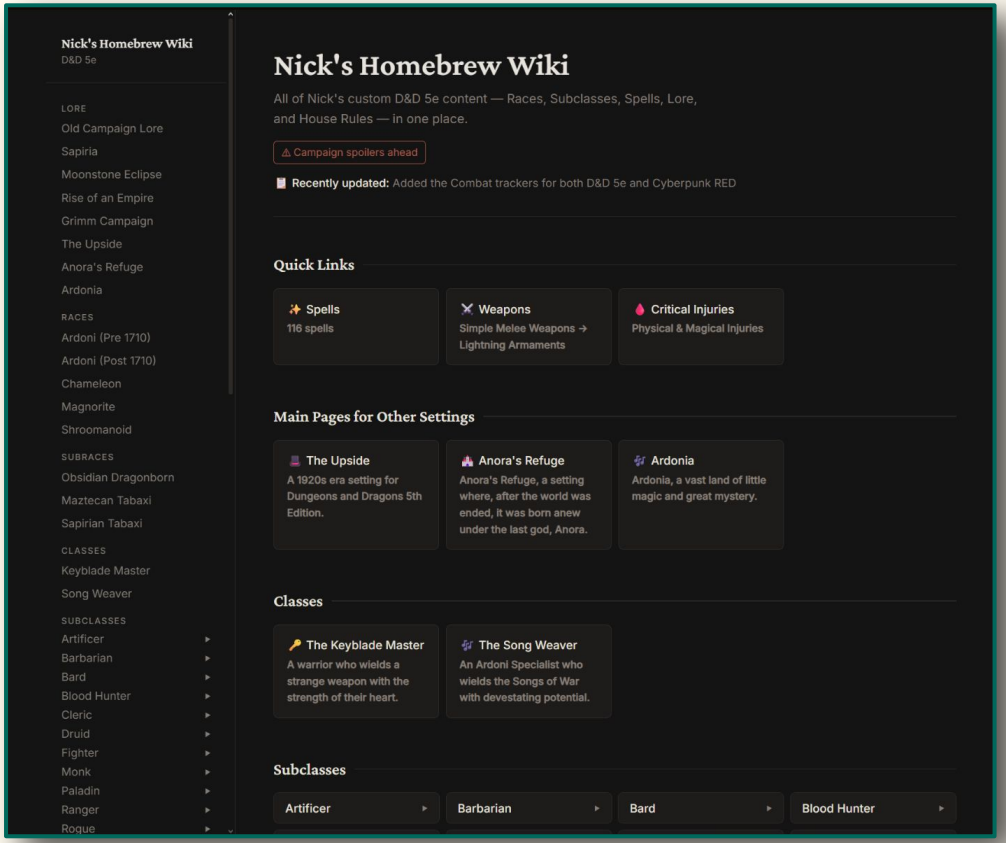

Tech Stack

- Visual Studio Code - Primary Platform
- GitHub Desktop - For revision control
- Languages:
  - Python - programming
  - HTML - web page development
  - CSS - styling
  - JavaScript - programming
  - JSON - databases

Why Tech Stack

- Ease Of Use
- Already Understand It (HTML)
- Nick's Homebrew Wiki [prior experience]

DEMO

Development Retrospective

- What went well
  - We made a functional site.
- What went poorly
  - Attendance was lacking.
- What didn’t go as planned
  - Attendance.
- What obstacles
  - Attendance.
- Lessons learned
  - You. Will. Attend.
- Different approaches
  - You. Will. Attend.

Thank You !